

Dr Andreas Schlatter

Member of the Board of Directors

Andreas Schlatter (1966) has been a member of FINMA's Board of Directors since 2020.

Andreas Schlatter earned his doctorate in mathematics at ETH Zurich in 1994 and was a member of Princeton University's Department of Mathematics from 1994-96.

In 1997, Andreas Schlatter began his professional career in Asset Management at what is now UBS AG. After various roles in Client Relationship Management and training as a financial analyst, he was appointed Head of Asset Management for the Switzerland region in 2009. In this role he was also responsible for investment funds in the EMEA region, among other things, and he was a member of both the Asset Management division's executive committee and UBS's executive board for Switzerland. From 2014-2016 he assumed the role of Global Head of Distribution for the Asset Management division.

Andreas Schlatter was Chairman of Swiss Banking's Commission for Asset Management for 10 years and was a member of the Swiss Federal Commission for Occupational Pensions.

Since 2016 he has been a member of various boards of directors outside the financial industry in a full-time capacity.
